The NHS Organ Donor Register...

...is a confidential central database where your details are held if you choose to sign up to be an organ donor. The register lists the organs and/or tissues you want to donate. Signing the register is the only way to centrally record your wishes.

Age and health...

...aren't barriers to organ donation. Everyone has the potential to be a donor, no matter what age you are or how your health is.

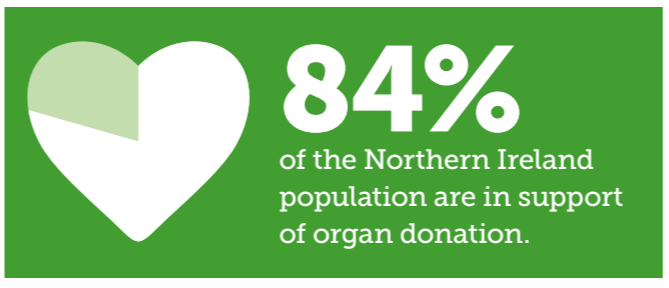

Your medical care...

...will not be affected. Health professionals have a duty of care to try to save life first. If, despite all their efforts the patient dies, his or her wish to be an organ donor may then be fulfilled.

All the major religions...

...support the principles of organ donation, and accept it's an individual choice. Consult your religious adviser or visit organdonationni.info if you need more information.

Tear here

Your family will make the final decision on donating your organs, whether you have signed the register or not. Make sure you have told them your wishes.

Jack's life was saved by someone we never even met.

Organ donation. Speak up and save a life.

Donation gives the gift of life.

By donating your organs after you die, you could save the lives of up to nine people.

There is a shortage of organs for transplant. In Northern Ireland around 140 people are on a waiting list, and someone dies on average every six weeks because they don't receive the vital organ they need.

Organ donation helps more than just the recipient. Donor families often say they take comfort from knowing they have fulfilled the wishes of their loved one and that something positive has come from their loss.

If you want to be an organ donor:

Speak up and tell your family your wishes.

Sign the NHS Organ Donor Register.

You can sign the register using this form or by visiting organdonationni.info

The NHS Organ Donor Register.

The register is a confidential database of anyone who chooses to sign up to be an organ donor. The register lists the organs and/or tissues you want to donate. It is also the database which medical professionals will consult to see if someone has opted to be a donor.

Registering is easy:

Online – it takes just a few minutes to register at organdonationni.info

Phone – call 0300 123 23 23

Post – fill in the attached form and return it by freepost

Who can sign the register?

Anyone above the age of 14 can sign the register. It doesn't matter how old you are or how your health is*. If the time comes, medical professionals will determine if your organs are healthy and suitable for donation.

*Parents/guardians can register their children before the age of 14 if the child has expressed a wish to do so.

Share your decision and save lives.

You should make sure to tell your family about your decision. If you die in circumstances where organ donation is possible, those closest to you will be asked to give their consent. Knowing your wishes can make this difficult time less stressful for your loved ones.

Only a small number of people die in circumstances where organ donation is possible, which means every donor is precious. If that person's family says no to donation, someone waiting for a transplant misses out.

Signing the register and telling your family you have done so sends a clear message that you want to be a donor.
